COAC has signed an agreement with the American company Bentley, whereby COAC becomes an official Bentley Select centre for training in AECOSim [2], Bentley's BIM software.

Through this agreement, Bentley will offer a free education AECOSim license to all architects who take part in one of the training courses organised by Escola Sert. In addition, they will get a discount if they want to buy a professional license.

AECOSim, an internationally recognized system, integrates all the functions needed to create BIM models of architectural projects, including the design, construction and operation of buildings. Thus, it facilitates the integration of structures, conditioning facilities, energy, costs and planning of the construction process.

On Thursday May 14th, at 11 am, this agreement will be presented in the COAC Hall.
